Accident and Health Excess of Loss Treaty Reinsurance

It is difficult to estimate the total potential exposure to an insured loss following a severe natural or man-made disaster. Our Excess of Loss Treaty Reinsurance product for Accident and Health offers protection to insurance providers by reducing the volatility from an insurance portfolio by limiting the potential losses following a catastrophic event.

The types of portfolios that are usually insured include life, personal accident, workers compensation, travel or a combination of these. Coverage is provided for losses that are higher than a specified amount.

The product will be triggered following a catastrophic event that could impact a protected portfolio. This may include both natural and man-made events such as:

- Earthquake
- Winds
- Tsunami
- Terrorism
- Large-scale industrial accidents

What we cover

- Group life
- Individual life
- Accidental death
- Dismemberment
- Short-term disability
- Long-term disability
- Workers compensation
- Combination of the above
